

Environmental Policy

Alelion's qualified, motivated staff will develop and supply intelligent and robust energy storage systems that are compatible with sustainable development, to ensure that we, and generations to come, have a satisfactory environment.

Our environmental activities will be characterised by:

- Distributing reliable information to customers about how our products can enhance their environmental performance
- Providing our customers with products that contribute to a minimal environmental impact throughout their life cycle
- Constantly training our staff in order to increase their knowledge and awareness of environmental issues, and creating a safe and healthy workplace from an environmental perspective
- Complying with applicable environmental legislation and regulations, as well as other environmental requirements that affect our business
- Working continuously and systematically on continuous improvements in order to prevent pollution and enhance our own environmental performance.
